BE SLOW IN GIVING UP THE OLD

It is always a new wonder how people can so easily reject that which is called old: old truths, old principles, old concepts, old slogans. Nothing is bad because it is old, and nothing is good because it is new.

Whatever has been so relevant as to outlast the ages deserves more than a hasty rejection. Look at the rubbish heaps of new ideas, painfully discarded and stacked higher and higher, before you remove the ancient landmarks. Those markers don't stand without purpose.

Though we call ageless truths old, actually they are younger than youth. That which defies time can never age.

Today Is Mine/Leroy Brownlow

The public does not require any new ideas. The public is best served by the good, old fashioned ideas it already has.

Henrik Ibsen

Remove not the old landmark. Proverbs 23:10
